BROADER MARKET — WEEK IN REVIEW

› The S&P 500 finished the week roughly flat as a two-day semiconductor selloff and rising US-Iran tensions offset a strong start to Q2 bank earnings.

› Clear defensive rotation: consumer staples, healthcare and real estate led, while technology and communication services lagged.

› Big banks kicked off earnings well — Goldman Sachs posted a record Q2 (EPS $20.98) and lifted its dividend 25%; JPMorgan also beat.

› Alphabet dropped sharply late in the week after a report that its Gemini 3.5 Pro model is behind schedule, reviving questions about AI monetization vs.

capex.
